Backyard Birding:

Watching, Listening and Connecting with Amy Beal, White Pine Programs

Tuesday, March 11th @ 10:00am
Eldredge Lumber & Hardware
inside the Atlantic Design Center
627 US Route One, York, Maine

Develop a deeper sense of connection to the birds living in your backyard, neighborhood or local green space. Learn some key elements of bird behavior and discuss practices that will help you get more out of your birding endeavors.

Bio:

Amy Martinez Beal, can be found outside on any given day at her home near the base of Mount Agamenticus, following a tiny River (3 year-old grandson), watching the birds, tending her gardens, or sketching wildlife tracks. Committed to deepening relationships with wildlife kin, Amy has devoted the past 20 years to learning more about the natural world alongside people of all ages through birding, wildlife tracking, adventure, book study, hardship, physical work and play. Amy has been affiliated with White Pine Programs, a center for nature education and human development for over 20 years as a Board Member, volunteer, mentor and staff member. She holds a Level III Certification in Wildlife Track & Sign, serves on the Board of Tracker Certification North America and organizes an annual wildlife tracking conference through Northeast Wildlife Trackers.
